3. Attend weekly meeting

Engaging and Assessing Student Learning

Throughout this quarter, I gained valuable insights into the role of Learning Assistants and the principles of active learning. I discovered that LAs play a vital role in facilitating student engagement, fostering collaboration, and promoting critical thinking. By implementing active learning strategies such as group work, problem-solving activities, and concept mapping, I witnessed how it enhanced students' understanding and retention of course material.

Working with the Instructional Team

Collaboration with teaching team, including the professor, TAs and other LAs, was instrumental in creating a cohesive learning experience for the students. Weekly meetings and discussions allowed us to align our teaching approaches, exchange ideas, and provide support to one another. Together, we fostered an inclusive and dynamic learning environment that benefited both students and our LAs.

CLAP Mentors and Observations

Through observations and feedback sessions, I received guidance on my opportunities for growth. I developed an action plan to enhance my skills as an LA, such as implementing active learning strategies shared by CLAP Mentors and refining my communication skills to better engage students during discussions.

Reflection on areas that need improvement:

- Explaining difficult problems in small several steps
- Developing a regular routine standardized method to approach each question
- Means that answers aren’t standardized over different concepts
- Being more confident in the material or reviewing beforehand to become more confident
- The shakiness in your answers might result in students becoming doubtful
- Being confident that you’re unsure about the material and walking through the fundamental concepts first specific steps I can improve

- Joining in from another device to screen share for students
- Building stronger connection with students in the beginning of the quarter
- Hosting review sessions with other LA
